PAX KOUP

The Koup is one of Pax's signature bags. It is made from an exclusive material developed by Pax, Pax Tec.

This material consists of polyester fibers coated with polyurethane, giving it exceptional durability and complete waterproofing throughout its entire lifespan. It does not absorb contaminants, making decontamination after each use, simple and quick.

The Koup is available in various configurations, all featuring comfortable, removable shoulder straps. In its most basic version, the Koup has two compartments: a slimmer front compartment for storing documents, a tablet, a cervical collar, or other items. The second, much deeper compartment is equipped with velcro strips that allow for attaching modules of various sizes.

The Koup is also available with one or two external front compartments, and side pouches are also an option. Finally, a version with wheels completes the range of options offered.
